

WESTMORLAND GEOLOGICAL SOCIETY

E-MAIL NEWSLETTER No. 89 January 2024

January Lecture

As Steve Buschette is unable to deliver this lecture, Dr Davide Fossa will now be talking about the Elgin reptiles instead. A poster giving more information about the talk as well as Zoom log-on details is attached

February Meeting

As usual our AGM will be held before the Presidential address, commencing at 7.45pm.

There will be a vacancy for at least one committee meeting – anyone interested please get in contact with the Secretary.

Tutorials

The next one will be on Thursday 25th January – Audrey Brown will be discussing geological cross-sections. Bring a pencil and paper. It will begin at 2.15 at AHSC.

February's tutorial will be a visit to Kendal Museum where the Society has been involved in setting up a new exhibition called the Sedgwick room. Meet at the Museum at 2.15. A discounted rate of £4 has been negotiated which includes free entry by a year.

Summer Programme

The 2024 summer field trip programme is attached along with this Newsletter.

Down to Earth

The January edition of Down to Earth Extra accompanies this Newsletter

3D Imaging

At the November tutorial Paul Helm demonstrated how images could be converted into 3D images, among other things, and promised to produce a paper explaining what it was all about. This paper is attached and should prove of interest whether you were at the tutorial or not.

Exhibition

If any of you are in London you might be interested in dropping in on this https://www.geolsoc.org.uk/megalosaurus?utm_campaign=Megalosaurus%20Month&utm_content=full%20programme&utm_term=&utm_medium=email&utm_source=Adestra

Changes to Programme

Changes to the published programme are sometimes unavoidable, often at the last minute, so please check the Society's website before setting off to attend any event.

