Family History Wanted

The first edition of 'All Saints' Memorial Inscriptions with some Family History' was printed in the previous millennium. Since then we have lost many loved ones, the Church Wardens have found old records and I have photographed Church 'gifts given in memoriam' so there is much interesting history to discover. I also hope to include details of people for whom there were memorial services in the church. I am planning to produce a CD with coloured photographs of all the memorials.

Although I can copy details from the Parish Burial records, they tell me nothing of the person's family history. I would be most grateful for information about the family history of anyone buried in Chilton particularly during the last twenty years, such as when and where they were born, when and where they married, number and names of children and, for those not born in Chilton, why they came to live here. Details of their achievements would make interesting reading too, were they artists, or scientists or did they have wartime adventures like Bert Kidd who died in 2006; his deeds were described by the Rector in the 'Ridgway Broadsheet'.

If you could lend me a photograph I can scan that in and add it to the CD. This will be most helpful for future family historians trying to trace their family trees. I am hoping to display my transcriptions of Chilton Parish Registers in All Saints' Church during the next 'Heritage Days', probably on the afternoon of Saturday 10th September, 2 - 4pm. Please come along and tell me all about your relatives.
