

The agricultural building at the East end of the house, containing two crucks.