

Glossary entry

knowledge-claim: an assertion to have generated new knowledge and understanding; knowledge claims are assessed for validity by subjecting them to standards of judgment.

Further explanation

A fundamental purpose of Living Educational Theory Research is to generate, test and share new knowledge in the form of explanations of educational influences in learning. For more information of the importance of testing the validity of knowledge-claims see the glossary entry on validity.