Glossary entry

relatability: The 'use value' to a reader of a Living Educational Theory Research account in developing their understanding of their own educational practice, to improving it and to generating, sharing and testing the validity of their own living-educational-theory.

Further explanation

Relatability was proposed by Michael Bassey as an alternative to the idea of generalisability used by a traditional theory to offer an explanation that applied to all.