

Glossary entry

unit of appraisal: An element from a claim to knowledge that is being judged.

Further explanation

From a Living Educational Theory Research perspective, the unit of appraisal is the individual's explanation of their educational influences in their own learning, in the learning of others and in the learning of the social formations within which the practice is located.