Dadlington Neighbourhood Plan

What is the Neighbourhood Plan?

Neighbourhood planning was introduced in 2011 and offers communities direct power to shape the development and growth of their local area.

Why is a neighbourhood plan important?

The Dadlington Neighbourhood Plan will allow people who live, work and have a business in the area to have a say where they think new houses and businesses should go and what they should look like. The Dadlington Neighbourhood Plan will be a statutory plan which means that once it has been finalised, it will help decide planning applications in the area.

The Draft Neighbourhood Plan has now been published for consultation with local people.

What is in the Draft Plan?

Feedback from the 29-page questionnaire, sent to all Dadlington households in 2021, has helped prepare this Draft version of the Neighbourhood Plan.

The Draft Plan contains policies and proposals to protect the countryside, important views, green spaces and heritage. It includes a proposed Area of Separation between Dadlington and Stoke Golding to check encroachment and safeguard the character of both settlements.

There are no major housing developments included in the draft plan. Following consultation with villagers and stakeholders, the final plan will be subject to a referendum of Dadlington villagers.

Where can I see the Draft Plan?
